

Short No. 718, Disc. No. 1086

Topic - Who use coercion in the matter of religion?

The Iron Age is a tamopradhaan age, isn't it? So, you are also made to do everything forcibly. That force itself is tamopradhaanta. If someone stays pure willingly, it is good. To force someone to be pure isn't correct. To force someone is a trait of the Muslim religion. Be it any religion, its practices should be followed willingly. To force someone in the subject of a religion and its dhaarna isn't a good religion, it isn't a good dhaarna.