Topic - No human being has the spiritual knowledge

The intellect of the human beings is fully engrossed in churning about the five elements. This body, which is made of the five elements, to have a deeper knowledge of this body [i.e. to know] what the body is, what the elements of the body are, what the materials of the body are, what the depth of those materials is. Their intellect is engrossed in those five elements, they are taking materialistic (bhautik) knowledge. Which knowledge are they taking? Bhautik knowledge but none of them possess the spiritual (aadhyatmik) knowledge. The very meaning of 'aadhyatmik' is adhi means inside, aatmik means within [the soul]. There is no need for anyone to think what is within the soul. They just don't know about it, then what will they think?
