

PROBLEMS CREATED BECAUSE OF THE RUINED GITA AND THEIR SOLUTIONS

The human being is a social animal, meaning the activities of every human being affects the entire society. But today, he has become selfish (svaarthi) just because of their selfishness while thinking about his own chariot, meaning his chariot like body. Well, the society is just degrading and is also being exploited even after following the customs and traditions of the ancient culture just like they were followed [earlier], constantly studying the Vedas and scriptures created by vicious humans and [doing] bhakti full of blind faith that has been continuing for many births. So, what is the reason for this?

The exploitation of the society is the result of the only greatest mistake of the human being and that mistake is to consider Krishna bound in celestial degrees to be God of the Gita and to consider God who is beyond the celestial degrees to be omnipresent.

How?

Corruption: The Supreme Father Supreme Soul Himself comes and makes us introduced to spirituality through which we realize our ‘sva’, meaning the soul. Prior to this, we just used to consider ourself a body. The soul is essentially pure and imperishable and the body continues to become perishable and impure. If the thoughts generated in the mind are for the soul, they will be called elevated [and] if they are for the body, they will be called corrupt. By following and bringing into practice these very opinions, elevated conduct (shreshthaacaar) and corrupt conduct (bhrashtaacaar) are born. The desires of the mind generated for the body and greed alone give rise to corruption.

But the dangerous bitter truth is that because of putting the name of mortal Krishna in the Gita and considering God to be omnipresent, the expanded form of corruption has received an encouragement. For example:

In the Gita, lust has been named ‘the greatest enemy’, but the people of the world don’t accept this because Krishna, the so-called creator of the Gita is depicted in the scriptures with eight *patranis*¹, 108 queens, 16,000 *gopis*² and their children too. Because of following the ruined of Krishna, human beings didn’t control their corrupt *indriyaan*³ and continued to experience the pleasure of lust. Had the world considered Shiva-Shankar *Bholenath*⁴ as the creator of the Gita, it would have easily accepted the point of ‘lust is the greatest enemy’; because Shankar is certainly famous in the form of *amogh viirya*⁵ and the one who turns *Kamdev*⁶ into ashes.

Because of putting the name of Krishna - who comes in the cycle of birth and death - in the Gita and considering Krishna to be God, [people] even made the Supreme Father omnipresent and every human being considered himself to be Shivoham (I am Shiva). However, human beings are certainly vicious, the ones with a beard and a moustache, aren’t they? (They are also born through vices itself.) He even considered the vicious opinion generated through his vicious intellect to be the opinion of Shiva and started following it. While bringing into practice the vicious and corrupt opinions, the entire world, the entire society became corrupt.

Growing population:- Increasing corruption, meaning the act through corrupt indriyaan itself is the main reason of the growing population. Because of putting the name of Krishna in the Gita, the increasingly vicious human beings just considered Krishna their ideal and the source of inspiration. Krishna is famous for the *raasliila*⁷ in the scriptures. So, the human being also started spending his life in raasliila with the dance of lust and desire. Because of not having control on lust, his population has reached such a level that today, even if he wishes he can't control the population. It has become a social problem of every country. Despite the continuous efforts of plans like family planning, the government is incapable to control the growing population. Had the human beings considered Shiva-Shankar alone to be God of the Gita and always believed in only the *amogh viirya*⁸, they would have considered lust as the greatest enemy and renounced that *vi + kaar*⁹, which is the main reason of the growing population. The Gita of Shiva-Shankar with [the mention of] 'lust is the greatest enemy' itself is the real family planning. There is no way other than this.

Disrespect of the woman:- The man is intellectual and the woman is emotional. Women have been suffering atrocities and exploitation for many centuries. There hasn't been any special improvement or transformation in the life of women despite the arrival of the 21st century and the things which we consider to be transformation are mere pretensions. But the real truth is just that the female species is weak through the body, mind and wealth even today. From a daughter to an old mother, they just feel themselves insecure in this entire society. The reason for this too is the ruined Gita itself. By putting the name of Krishna in the Gita, only the character of Krishna comes in front [of us]. In the wish to have an attractive husband like Krishna and a dear child like Krishna, [women] become crazy and just remain as a puppet of their husband and children. They suffered degradation all the more by considering their vicious husband to be God and following their vicious opinions, considering them to be the opinion of God. Those whom they made their gurus were also men. A disgraceful attempt to destroy the self-esteem of every woman was made by the very sanyasis who said women were 'the gateway to hell'. Had they considered Shiva-Shankar as God of the Gita, in which the proof of [the presence of] Shakti in Shankar is famous as '*Ardhanaarishwar*¹⁰', which represents the equality of man and woman then certainly, women would have also received the right to live an equally honourable [life] and a life without fear according to the Indian culture.

Because of following Krishna, men started having many wives [and] started considering women as the form of sensual pleasure. Isn't this disrespect for the woman? Aren't they laughing at their feelings? Had he followed Shiva-Shankar, the Creator of the Gita, he would have lived a life being loyal to one wife (ek patnivrat) like Shankar and would have just stayed celibate after having one wife (ek naari sadaa brahmacaari).

Terrorism:- Terrorism is not just the result of mutual differences and aversion but this is also a kind of pain created through the ruined Gita. Because of putting the name of the corporeal Krishna in the Gita, the worshippers of the Incorporeal One started neglecting the Gita, they started laughing at it. This is why various opinions, various religions, cultures and civilizations were created. Because of various languages, various provinces and various states were created, Rahu¹¹ in the form of diversities devoured heavenly Bharat, the clean and pure place of unity, one undivided [and] complete great Bharat was divided into many parts and in the race of expressing his religion, region, state and language of the state to be great, human being forgot humanity and started creating such a fearsome terror that everyone including those who are guilty as well as innocent were distressed. Today, among all the arguments, the gravest and explosive form is of terrorism. Had they considered the incorporeal Shiva-Shankar as God of the Gita, diversities wouldn't have been born at all because the naked form of the incorporeal Shankar who exhibits the incorporeal point soul is famous in every religion. [He is famous] in the form of 'Adidev' among the Hindus, 'Adinath' among the Jains, 'Aadam' among the Muslims, 'Adam' among the Christians and so on as well. Had there been this (feeling of) oneness = unity, today people of every religion would have just considered the Gita in the form of the crown jewel among all the scriptures as their religious book and would have followed it. But because of the ruined Gita, the entire world along with Bharat was divided into various parts from the dualistic Copper and Iron Age (2500 years), while opposite to this, the complete Gita itself gives the form of '*Vasudhaiv Kutumbakam*¹²' to the world. So, the end of the curse in the form of terrorism is also certain through the complete Gita itself.

This isn't the end but after this, many problems are created through the ruined Gita. For example, poverty and unemployment, because of which indecent deeds like theft and robbery arise. Adulterous behaviour take the form of a brothel and gives an expanded form to dirt and diseases in visible and invisible form. All these social problems have arisen because of the only mistake of this very ruined Gita of Krishna. If we understand, accept the visible active form of God of the Gita, meaning Shiva-Shankar, the Creator of the Gita and follow the path shown by Him, we can become the reason of true liberation of not just ourselves but of the entire human race and the entire world. Otherwise, the destiny is certainly fixed.
